

VINCENT ST JOHN SHOT

Arch Agitator of the Goldfield Miners' Union Receives Three Bullets from the Revolver of Teddy Mullany, One of the Conservative Leaders of the Union--Two Other Men Wounded by Wild Bullets

GOLDFIELD, Nov. 5.—Vincent St John, the radical leader of the Miners' Union, was tonight shot by T. H. Mullany, better known as Teddy Mullany, one of the conservative members of the union. Mullany emptied his six-shooter after St John, who turned and fled at the first shot, and two innocent bystanders were hit by stray bullets.

The shooting took place in front of the Palm restaurant. It was at 5:30 o'clock, and the street at the time was crowded. St John was hit by the first bullet in the wrist, and as he ran two more shots took effect in the same arm. John Tennant, an old man seventy years of age, was shot in the left thigh, and may die from the shock. Robert Kelly received a bullet in the region of the abdomen, but it is not thought that he is seriously hurt.

St John was removed to the Miners' hospital, and it is said that unless complications set in, he will recover. Neither he nor Mullany, who is under arrest, will say anything that can throw any light on the causes that led to the shooting, but the general impression is that the trouble was over union matters.

St John had a revolver in his pocket, which was loaded, but made no attempt to defend himself.

Mullany and St John were observed in front of the Palm grill in very heated conversation. Both were excited, and were talking in a loud key. There was to have been a meeting tonight, and it is said that the matter of the Bishop strike was to come up for consideration. Mullany was opposed to the strike, and still further opposed to dragging the union of Goldfield into the affairs of a union in California.

Some who were near enough to the men to overhear their conversation aver that this was the cause of the trouble, and that Mullany had declared that St John was responsible for the attempted trouble which had been a reflection on the local union.

Suddenly, Mullany, who was standing with his back to the restaurant, and facing the street, drew his weapon and uttering an imprecation against St John, fired. The ball struck the arch agitator in the wrist, and he jumped from the sidewalk into the street, and started in the direction of the Palace saloon, nearly a block away. Mullany kept up the fusillade as St John ran, and the fleeing man stumbled and fell.

The crowds on Main street scattered as the shots rang out, running for all points of safety. Some hugged the sides of buildings, while others threw themselves prone on the sidewalk. Poor old Tennant was making for a place of safety when he was struck, and he fell in his tracks. Kelly was close to the shooter, and was caught almost in the same manner.

St John struggled to his feet, and continued in his flight, his objective point being the Palace saloon. A stray bullet caught him again in the arm, but he kept on in his flight, and half fell, half jumped into the saloon.

In a moment the town was in the wildest state of excitement, and stories of all kinds were afloat. The crowds began to surge into the street and a mob gathered about the Palm.

Mullany was perhaps the coolest man in all the crowd. He submitted quietly to arrest and volunteered no statement either to the officers or to his friends who were quick to crowd around him. The thoroughfare on Main street was blocked when the news spread that St John was shot, and the first reports were to the effect that President McKinnon of the union had also been wounded, and that neither man was expected to live.

St John was hurried to the Miners' hospital, and was soon followed by Tennant, for the life of whom fears were expressed. Kelly was taken to his home, and, later, it was learned that he was resting easily, and that he was not in danger at present.

Mullany, when seen at the jail absolutely refused to make any statement of the trouble. To his immediate friends he may have said something, but they were as uncommunicative to the public as was he. St John, too, had no statement to make.

Mullany has always borne a record for peace and quiet, and had, perhaps, more friends than any man in the union. He has the respect and friendship of numbers outside the union. He has been regarded always as a man who was fair-minded and conservative; and always opposed to the radical actions of St John. It was a surprise tonight to those who know him to learn of his action.

He is said to come from a very good family, is well educated and a man of unusual intelligence. He is well liked by all who

ELECTIONS THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY ARE QUIET

[By Associated Press.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The elections throughout the country passed off quietly. Returns from all sections up to midnight gave the following results: In Massachusetts, Governor Gould has an estimated plurality of 75,000. In New Jersey, reports indicate that Katzenbach (Democrat) will have a plurality of 10,000 for governor. In Pennsylvania, Sheats, for State Treasurer, is elected by a majority estimated at 195,000. In New York City, Tammany candidates are leading those of Independence Leagues. In Rhode Island, Higgins (Democrat) for governor, is making gains.

In Maryland, the returns indicate that ex-Governor Smith has won in the senatorial primaries. No early returns on governorship. In Kentucky, Wilson, Republican candidate for governor, is making gains and there is no doubt of his overcoming the Democratic majority of 1903. In Mississippi the election of Noel, Democratic candidate for governor, is assured. No opposition. At Cleveland, returns indicate plurality for Tom Johnson for mayor. At Salt Lake City, American, or anti-Mormon ticket, is leading. In San Francisco, Taylor, Democratic and Good Government League candidate for mayor, and Langdon, incumbent and graft prosecutor, are elected according to all indications.

Sufficient returns have been received to make certain that the Republican and Independence League Fusion in New York county was defeated by the straight Democrat ticket. The Democrats have gained six in the New York State assembly.

The Independence League Ticket for Court of Appeals is also defeated, 4 to 1.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 5.—John C. Sheats is elected State Treasurer over John G. Harmon by 175,000 plurality. Sheats is Republican; Harmon, Democrat.

ATLANTIC CITY, Nov. 5.—The Republican majority for the State ticket appears to be about 1000. The normal majority is 3000.

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 5.—The municipal candidates of the American party will have the largest plurality ever given in this city. Bransford, for mayor, will have 10,000. The Americans who have been in power for the last two years, will control the council.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 5.—At Republican headquarters the election of Mayor Tom Johnson to succeed himself is conceded. A majority of the councilmen elected are Democratic and also the city officers with, possibly, one exception.

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—The Republican

MILLIONS OF MONEY NOW POURING INTO THE COUNTRY

(Special to the Bonanza.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The first shipment of European gold to relieve the present money shortage came today on the Kron Princess Cecilia, amounting to $7,100,000. The Lusitania will follow closely with $10,000,000, and $14,000,000 more will arrive before the end of the week. French financiers today showed a willingness to assist London to bear the heavy financial strain occasioned by shipments to the United States.

Secretary Cortelyou was in the city today and conferred with Morgan and other financiers. Those who talked with him say that he indicated that there is no intention on the part of the President to call an extra session of Congress. The statement of leading financiers today is that the corner has been turned and better conditions will prevail from now on.

PLACER LEASE PROVING MINE OF LITTLE GREY

Bright Yellow Gold is Being Washed from the Hidden Vein of Another Manhattan Property.

Wonders, apparently, will never cease in Manhattan. Gold has been found wherever it has been dug for, and the latest method of extracting the precious metal is by the placer process. In this there has been another good mine developed in the Little Grey.

Charley Cole of this city spent considerable time in Alaska, and placer mining is his bent in mining. He was of the opinion that he could make a go of it on the ground of the Little Grey, and so took a placer lease on that property. He was in yesterday with a bottle of black sand and nuggets, not a clean-up, just a pick-up from the riffles.

The striking feature of the collection is that it is not placer gold; it is ledge matter. The gold is not round and worn, which would indicate that it had traveled for a great distance. It is rough, showing that it came from the ledge close at hand, and there is plenty of it.

"There is a mine in the Little Grey, beyond a doubt," said Mr. Cole, "and that is more interesting to me than what we may get out of our placer diggings. We will get the stuff all right; in fact we are getting it; but the fact that it comes from close at hand, and has not been washed for a long distance shows that there is a vein close by. I have no interest in the Little Grey further than our lease, in which Cam Burns, an old Klondyker, is interested with me."

"I would like to have a slice of the Little Grey, but I do not begrudge what is coming to others, and if I can help to make a mine of the property, I am not losing anything in the endeavor, and there is so much more glory for Manhattan."

"We clean up every night. We handle water from the shaft of the Gold Wedge, which we pump into a reservoir, then use it with a centrifugal over and over in sluicing. We use both the Pole and the Hungarian riffles, and have 160 feet of boxes, or sixteen boxes in all. We get the gold from the grass roots. Bedrock goes as low as six feet. It is our intention to work as long as the winter remains open, but expect to do our big work in the summer, for which time we will be all ready."

The Little Grey is owned by the Tonopah Exploration Company, in which are interested Malcolm Macdonald, Donald Gillies, George Bartlett, Key Pittman, E. Cushman and others of Tonopah.

QUIET IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The quietest election in years as far as the general public is concerned, is proceeding in Greater New York today. The slow balloting in the early hours indicated a light vote would be cast. Over 100 precautionary arrests for illegal voting were made, but all the prisoners were released for lack of evidence.

ROOSEVELT CASTS HIS VOTE.

OYSTER BAY, Nov. 5.—President Roosevelt arrived here shortly before 10 o'clock this morning and was met by Mrs. J. West Roosevelt. As the president stepped from his carriage he was cheered by a throng of neighbors, with most of whom he shook hands. He was given ballot No. 84 and spent four minutes in preparing it.

TAYLOR WINS AND IS BEATEN ONLY BY LANGDON

[By Associated Press.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 5.—Early returns from various precincts over the city indicate the election of Taylor, the Democratic and Good Government candidate for mayor and Langdon, incumbent district attorney. McCarthy, Labor candidate for mayor, is running close to Taylor, while Ryan, Republican, has a light vote.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 5.—At 9:30, 1200 votes counted, gave Ryan 214, Taylor 533, McCarthy 382; Langdon got 768, McGowan 431. Register Adams made a statement at 9:30 to the effect that the returns received indicate that the entire Good Government League ticket will be elected.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 5.—The returns from the city precincts up to midnight indicate that Taylor has been elected mayor by upwards of 8000. Langdon's majority will be even greater than that.

All the candidates of the Good Government League, it appears from the partial returns, were carried on the popular wave which set in for the head of the ticket. All over the city the vote was extremely heavy and in some of the north of Market street precincts the vote nearly equalled the registration. The Union Labor vote was weaker in some districts than had been expected by the supporters of the other tickets. McCarthy, however, is beating Ryan, the Republican candidate, in the total vote. The election passed quietly and there is little demonstration tonight.

IN THE MORMON CITY.

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 5.—At noon today 10,000 votes had been cast in the city election, which breaks all records. Mayor Bransford, who was elected by the city council to fill the unexpired term of Ezra Thompson, who was elected on the American ticket, is slightly in the lead. The race is between Bransford and Morris, former incumbent (Democratic), who was a popular mayor four years ago. The Republicans, with Dr. Plummer as candidate, have no chance. All three mayoralty candidates are representative citizens. The Americans are the successors of the former Liberal party, which beat the Mormons in 1890 by electing Scott for mayor, before the division on party lines.

SUTTON DEFEATS SCHAEFER.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Geo. Sutton, the billiard champion, tonight defeated Jacob Schaefer, 500 to 241.

ENDS LIFE IN MANHATTAN WHEN HIS MONEY IS GONE

(Special to the Bonanza.)

MANHATTAN, Nov. 5.—A. C. Cable, a mining man, committed suicide this morning by shooting himself through the head in the lobby of the Merchants' hotel.

Cable had been drinking heavily for the last few days, and yesterday he went to gambling. He lost one thousand dollars on the wheel. Last night he went into the red light district, and there, it is said, he was robbed of the rest of his money, amounting to about four hundred dollars.

When he awoke this morning and found himself without money, he became despondent. He took a few drinks and then deliberately ended his life by shooting himself. Considerable feeling exists against the occupants of the house, and those connected with it, where he was robbed. This afternoon, two of the women in the house were arrested on a charge of robbery.
